Tax Adviser of the Year for 2018: And the winner is: TPA

Vienna – The TPA team is delighted to have received a special award: on 19 April 2018, the tax advisory and auditing company was crowned “Tax Adviser of the Year” at Vienna’s Sofiensäle. This is the first time that TPA has triumphed in the “Allrounder Vienna” category of the competition organised by the newspaper “Die Presse” and ifa AG.

Austria’s tax firms entered the race for the coveted award this year for the fourth time. The initiators had introduced the award to honour a professional group that is important to the economy but which receives little attention for its efforts otherwise – even though it makes such a decisive contribution to the success of domestic businesses. The decision was made by those who really ought to know – the customers of the tax firms. A jury of experts then selected the best candidates from among those with the most customer nominations in a total of nine categories.

Winner for Vienna

TPA emerged as the clear winner for Vienna. TPA partner Monika Seywald thanked customers for their confidence, and also especially thanked TPA’s employees for their tireless commitment. Leopold Brunner, TPA partner and member of the Management Team, sees the award as confirmation of the path taken by TPA: “In the consulting work we do, we see ourselves as our customers’ partners. The fact that we have now become the Number 1 in Vienna shows us that we are on the right path with this. And this will spur us on to continue doing everything we can in helping our customers to succeed.”

TPA: Facts and figures
